

MR. SCOTT'S BIG SCHEME

HE WANTS TO EVADE THE INTER-STATE COMMERCE LAW.

The Output of His Coal Mines to be Shipped Over Railroads Freight Station for Nearly Five Hours. A Vessel from Erie on Lake Boats.

ERIE, Pa., March 5.—(Ex-Congressman Scott yesterday purchased eighty tons in this city, fronting on Lake Erie. The price exceeded $100,000. In addition, Mr. Scott has obtained on a large number of other two hundred water lots in Erie, which, in the aggregate, place him in absolute control of the largest and most valuable dockage property on the great lakes in the hands of one individual. He proposes forthwith to expend over $1,000,000 upon the new purchase in the construction of extensive docks for the handling and transshipment of soft coal and ores, in which he is largely engaged.

The chief end sought by Mr. Scott, however, is to concentrate his coal business and evade the high freights imposed upon all shipments to lake points outside of Pennsylvania. On all such shipments he finds himself on an equal footing with other shippers, but the interstate law does not apply to shipments within the State. Mr. Scott's relations with the Pennsylvania Railroad and Pennsylvania Company will therefore be maintained, and he will continue to ship his mines near Pittsburgh at rock-bottom rates. It will then be forwarded by water. One will be handled upon the return trip, and Mr. Scott contemplates paying the full carrying capacity of the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad.

To Erie his move is the most important business transaction in years, which Mr. Scott at the same time outwits the Interstate Commission and his competitors.

HAMMOND'S QUEER PLACE.

The Keeper of the West End Resort Faces his Accusers in Print.

NEW YORK, March 5.—A special to the World from Seattle, Wash., says that Charles H. Hammond authorizes the Seattle press to contradict L'Abouchere's statement that he was assisted by the British Government to leave Belgium. Hammond claims that he was not in Belgium, where he lived six weeks in a small village near the French frontier, whence he proceeded to Antwerp via Brussels.

While he kept house in Cleveland street, he says, he was completely paralyzed, as he can prove by well-known physicians. He says that he was not responsible for what was going on in the house. Hammond says he cannot tell whether Lord Somerset ever stopped in his house or not. He never inquired of his guests their names or business. Some of them, he says, were well, among many young students of good family. For instance, the brothers Beveridge. Hammond believes that much injury has been done in London in connection with the case. He says that many things which happened in C. J. Hammond's place in the Eastern Road may have been attributed to his house in Cleveland street.

THE PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

It Adopts the Report of the Committee on International Law.

The Pan-American conference has finally adopted the report of the Committee on International Law. The majority and minority reports were made by the Committee on Customs Union. The majority says that the establishment of a customs union, as generally understood, would require not only a sacrifice of the national sovereignty of the American nations, but more radical changes in their respective constitutions than they are willing to accept.

Dr. and the majority therefore deems the adoption of a customs union as impracticable. They propose to recommend, however, to such of the governments as may desire partial reciprocity, make commercial treaties with one or more of the American nations, under such a basis as may be accepted in each case. The minority report recommends the rejection of the whole subject.

SENATOR DOLPH'S RESOLUTION.

He Says the Newspaper Men are Guilty of Contempt of the Senate.

Yesterday the Senate in executive session debated for five hours a resolution offered by Mr. Dolph on behalf of the Smelling Committee recently appointed to investigate executive session leakages, calling for the arrest and imprisonment of A. J. Halford of the Associated Press and George Grantham of the United States Press for conspiracy in refusing to divulge the sources of the news concerning secret sessions which they have sent out from time to time.

The resolution and report of the committee set forth the fact that these correspondents have been guilty of making public the confidential business of the Senate, contrary to the statute, and that they have placed themselves in contempt of the Senate by refusing to answer questions concerning the sources of their information.

In presenting the resolution, Mr. Dolph said that the committee had been unable to obtain any information from five newspaper men, who have been called as witnesses in the investigation, which has been in progress for some time. The local papers, he said, had been refused to answer questions from the Press Association and only a few papers, published elsewhere, printed other than the regular press reports.

He held that the Press Association and the men who furnished these facts to them were particularly culpable, and that it would be wise for the Senate to make an example of them. During the discussion that followed it was suggested that the other correspondents were equally in contempt, and when the resolution is finally acted upon it may include their names also. They are E. G. Snodgrass of the New York Tribune, Julius Guttridge of the New York Herald, and F. A. Dupuy of the New York Times.

Senator Teller offered a substitute for Mr. Dolph's resolution, the resolution heretofore offered by him and now pending before the Committee on Rules, providing for the consideration of nominations in open executive session. He said that the Senate was making fun of its efforts to run down the betrayers of executive secrets. He said that Senators knew perfectly well that most of the information of a confidential character was betrayed by members of the Senate. He did not think it would be possible to accomplish the end which Mr. Dolph desired by throwing two or three newspaper men into jail. Instead of preventing the disclosure of secrets, they would make that body a common laughing stock.

Senator Wilson of Iowa, a member of the leakage committee, supported Mr.

Dolph. Senator Blackburn, also a member of the committee, gave the resolution a qualified endorsement. Mr. Platt spoke in favor of Mr. Teller's resolution, and was followed by Mr. Harris, who supported Mr. Dolph vigorously.

The debate was continued at great length, the matter being under discussion for nearly five hours. Mr. Teller probably be late to-day. The indications are that the Dolph resolution will not be agreed to.

History mentions numerous women who have endeavored, with greater or less success, to change the color of their hair. Mary, Queen of Scots, had naturally magnificent glossy black hair, but after the historic voyage from Calais over seas to Scotland, and her reception by the sandy-haired Scotch she sought to give an Auburn hue to her tresses—possibly from an aesthetic desire to be in harmony with her environment.

Unhappy Marie Antoinette discovered a Frenchman, and he compounded a powder having the quality of giving to the hair the rich dark brown characteristic of the Madonnas painted by many of the old masters. At one time, Charles McCarthy, a Frenchman, was the wealthiest and most fashionable of the patrician dames at certain herbs, and took a complicated course of medicinal baths, with the object of lightening the color of her hair. She succeeded in her endeavor. A similar attempt is recorded of Arabian beauties of the time of the Caliph Omar.
